HILDEGARDE NAUGHTON,
Minister of State at the Department of Transport

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Instrument and does not purport to be a legal interpretation.)

These Regulations implement elements of Chapter V of the International Convention for the Safety of Life at Sea (SOLAS) 1974 relating to the carriage of nautical charts and publications.

In particular, these Regulations require Irish registered ships, including fishing vessels, to carry charts containing sufficient detail to show navigational marks, known dangers and other specified information which is appropriate for each part of the intended voyage. Ships are also required to carry specified published nautical publications and information. All such charts and publications are to be carried on the ship in a place readily available to the officer of the watch. The requirements do not apply to Irish registered ships less than 12 metres in length and to Irish registered fishing vessels less than 24 metres in length. The Regulations apply to non-Irish ships while they are within Irish waters.

All ships, including ships less than 12 metres in length and fishing vessels less than 24 metres in length, must carry an Illustrated Table of Life Saving Signals.

The Regulations revoke the Merchant Shipping (Carriage of Nautical Publications) Regulations, 1985.
